

Transportation guidance for Foresight Practitioner Conference 2026 - VIVES Bruges, Belgium

There is a direct train from the Brussels airport to Bruges, then a short walk or drive. All screenshots are for March 1, 2026

- Most flights would arrive in Brussels National Airport (Zaventem). Low-cost flights such as Ryanair could arrive in Brussels South (=Charleroi) -> see next point.
- Train website: <https://www.belgiantrain.be/en>

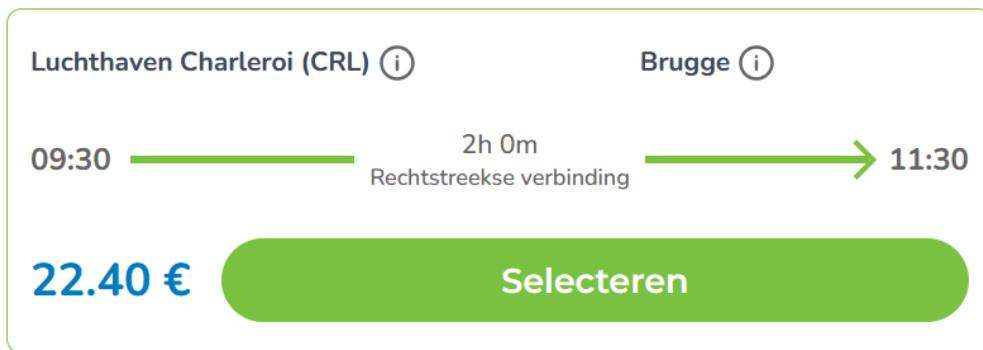

- Using Brussels-South airport, it is a bit more complex. One needs to take a bus to the station then changing trains in Brussel Midi.
 - "To travel from Charleroi Airport to Bruges, you first need to take the TEC A-bus from the airport to one of the nearby train stations: Charleroi-Central, Luttre, or Fleurus. The bus ticket costs €6 per single journey and can be purchased via the TEC website or app.
 - Once at the train station, you can take a train to Bruges. There are regular train services between Charleroi-Central and Bruges, but please note there are no night trains or night buses. You will need a separate train ticket for your journey from Charleroi-Central to Bruges.
 - For more details about the TEC A-bus, you can visit the TEC website (https://www.letec.be/View/Relier_l'aeroport_de_Brussels_South_Charleroi/989)."
